Special Weather Statement for Stoddard County, MO - Friday, February 16th

The National Weather Service in Paducah, Kentucky has issued a Special Weather Statement for Stoddard County, MO.

Description

...Light Snow Accumulations Possible on Friday... Precipitation will begin in the form of rain for many locations on Friday.

As colder air works southward across the region, a wintry mix of sleet and snow will be possible through the afternoon and into the early evening before ending. The potential exists for some light slushy accumulations ranging from a dusting to around an inch. Right now the highest amounts appear most likely along the I-64 corridor in southern Illinois and southwest Indiana.

However, this may fluctuate some still. Warm ground temperatures and time of day may largely limit any accumulations to grassy and elevated surfaces. However, if brief heavy rates are realized then a slushy accumulation may occur on a few roads.
