Dexter DECA Excels At State

A ShowMe Times News Report

A group of future leaders travelled to a statewide competition recently and was successful in competition.

Eleven students in the DECA program at Dexter High School participated in the DECA State Leadership Conference. The students qualified to attend the state conference through success at the district competition earlier this spring.

The Entrepreneurship Promotion team of Austin Seabaugh, Logan Crowley and Glen Parker placed fifth in the state in its competition. The purpose of the Entrepreneurship Promotion Project is for the team to show they can plan, organize, implement and then evaluate a campaign to show the opportunities available for an entrepreneur.

“This is the first time since I became DECA sponsor that a Dexter team has been recognized on the stage at state contest for winning a spot,” Tammy Crowley, DECA sponsor at DHS said.
