Has It Been 100 Days Already!

With 100 jumping jacks, drawing what they would like at age 100, and counting 100 seconds and 100 fruity cereal pieces, the kids in the first grade at Southwest Elementary celebrated 100 days of school Tuesday.

First-grade teacher Shannon Putnam said that students did all sorts of things centered around 100 to celebrate the 100th day of classes.

“It as a fun way to celebrated 100 days of school,” Putnam said. “We’re over the half-way mark! There’s 75 school days left this year!”

Students showed off their drawings of what they thought they would look like at age 100 – complete with toothless smiles, grey hair and walking canes. Putnam said that 100 seconds was longer than some thought it would be, and counting all the way to 100 was a big skill to master. The students even watched a short video about 100 days of school.

Since the first-grade classes learn many skills like counting to 100. The students participated in special activities all day. And made special “100” hats for the day.

“It’s a fun day – and encourages learning,” Putnam said. As Cadet Teacher Daniel Fitts helped distributed cereal loops, the students prepared for the end of the 100th day of class by counting out 100 “game pieces” of cereal – a tasty way to end the 100th day of school!

Enter The Year Of the Chinese Dragon!

Enter The Year Of the Chinese Dragon!

By Annabeth Miller, SMT Editor

This is the Year of the Dragon in Chinese culture, and first grade students in Shannon Putnam's class at Southwest Elementary in Dexter recently celebrated the festive occasion.

The Chinese New Year is the longest and most important festivity of the year for the Chinese. It lasts for 15 days and in China it is known as "Spring Festival" because it marks the end of winter.

Chinese New Year is celebrated in countries and territories with significant Chinese populations, such as Mainland China, Indonesia, Singapore, Taiwan, Thailand, Vietnam and in Chinatowns around the world.

The Dexter students had a chance to sample some Chinese cuisine including fried rice, tried their hands and talents at Chinese art, and learn more about the world's most populated nation. Several students brought in items from China, and the youngsters had a chance to see Chinese money, fans and more.

While the students worked, Putnam went on to say, "Like Americans, the Chinese also have a zodiac calendar. However, unlike Americans, who base their symbols on birth months, the Chinese base their zodiac symbols on the birth year."

There are 12 symbols: Rat, Ox, Tiger, Rabbit, Snake, Horse, Sheep, Monkey, Rooster, Dog, Pig and Dragon. Each symbol is observed every 12 years.

A person born in the Year of the Dragon is said to be magnanimous, stately, vigorous, strong, self-assured, proud, noble, direct, dignified, eccentric, intellectual, fiery, passionate, decisive, pioneering, artistic, generous and loyal. Can be tactless, arrogant, imperious, tyrannical, demanding, intolerant, dogmatic, violent, impetuous and brash.
