Dexter, Missouri - Registration has begun for Three Rivers College's Winter Session, and will continue through December 13. Winter Session, which begins December 16, is an all-online, four-week session offered between the Fall and Spring semesters for students looking to complete their coursework more quickly.

"Because the courses are all online, it allows students to work at their own pace, from home," said Dr. Wesley Payne, Vice President for Learning at Three Rivers. "It's a great opportunity to catch up or get ahead, whether you're staying close to home at Three Rivers or back on winter break from Mizzou."

Winter Session classes are open to both Three Rivers students and those attending other colleges and universities. Students from other colleges and university students should check with their school before enrolling. A visiting student form can be downloaded at www.trcc.edu/admissions/

Registration is also underway for Spring classes, with registration ending on January 13.
