Daily Devotional - How to Walk With God

Daily Devotional - How to Walk With God

Genesis 5:21-24

Enoch's walk with the Lord was so close that Scripture tells us, “God took him” (Gen. 5:24). This implies Enoch didn’t die but was taken directly into the presence of God. What a wonderful testimony!

As we seek to follow God with this same passion, let’s review some specific steps to help us keep up in our walk with the Lord.

Reconciliation. This concept carries the sense of God moving toward us. We can be joyful because the responsibility is all His. Through the cross of His Son Jesus Christ, God has already made His move in our direction. Scripture says, “Now all these things are from God, who reconciled us to Himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation” (2 Cor. 5:18). When we trust in Christ, we immediately take part in that reconciliation.

Trusting God. We must have faith, not only that God is concerned with our walk, but that He has, through Jesus Christ, provided all we need to walk intimately with Him anytime.

Agreement. To appreciate the closeness God longs to have with us, we must agree with what Scripture teaches about His Son, His Word, the church, and our problem with sin.

Fellowship. Just as human relationships fall apart without regular contact, our intimacy with God weakens when we don't spend time with Him.

Walking with God is not an impossible mission, but it does require careful attention to the details of our Christian lives. When we set our course for God, He'll always be there to direct our paths (Prov. 3:5-6).

Daily Devotional - God's Greatness - A Source of Comfort

JANUARY 22ND 2016 BY DEE LOFLIN

Daily Devotional - God's Greatness - A Source of Comfort

Psalms 89:1-10

David's cries for help fill the pages of the Psalms. His prayers are a blend of requests and worship recalling God's greatness, love, power, and protection. Praying with recognition of God's amazing attributes reminds us He has the wisdom, strength, and compassion to meet all our needs. Here are examples of this type of prayer:

- "Where can I go from Your Spirit? Or where can I flee from Your presence?" (Ps. 139:7). God is everywhere. He's not limited by time or space—we are never away from His awareness for a single moment. So, even when we feel isolated or friendless, we're not alone.
- "Great is our Lord and abundant in strength; His understanding is infinite" (Ps. 147:5). God knows everything. When we bend our knees to pray to Him, He's already aware of the feelings and needs we're about to mention. So we can be certain that when we ask for direction, He'll provide clear guidance if we're submitted to His will.
- "As for me, I shall call upon God ... the one who sits enthroned from of old ... with whom there is no change" (Ps. 55:16, 19). God's character is constant. Since we can always trust He'll be faithful, reliable, and merciful, we can place our confidence in Him no matter the situation.

When believers recall an attribute of God that meets their needs, they place the focus of their prayers on the Lord rather than on the request. By mixing praise into our prayers, we end up asking for less, worshipping better, and receiving more because our emphasis is in the right place.

Daily Devotional - Developing Convictions

Daily Devotional - Developing Convictions

Jeremiah 17:5-8

An acorn needs nutrients and time to grow into a tall oak tree. Likewise, men and women of conviction develop gradually through committed Bible study and prayer. Ready to get planted firmly in biblical truth? It can help to make a list of issues for which you need to form a conviction.

Here are questions to get you started:

Do you consider the Bible true and trustworthy?

Do you think that believing in Jesus is the only way to be saved?

What is the Holy Spirit's role in the lives of believers and unbelievers?

Are we to forgive others in every situation?

How should Christians approach finances?

What's your purpose in life?

What is your role in the church and at work?

How should you think about social issues like abortion and racism?

It's my hope these questions will open the eyes of those who haven't considered how their personal philosophies developed. It's time to change that. Study the Bible and make God's Word the cornerstone of your thinking. A concordance will point you to scriptures that relate to the above topics. Evaluate what the Bible says instead of forming conclusions based on personal preference. Ask, What does God say? rather than What does this mean to me?

Once you know what God says, you have a choice: Believe Him and commit to living according to your conviction, or continue being tossed by waves of doubt and indecision (James 1:6). Root yourself in God's Word, and be called one of His oaks of righteousness (Isa. 61:3).

Daily Devotional - Our Convictions - Our Defense

JANUARY 19TH 2016 BY DEE LOFLIN

Romans 14:20-23

A person of conviction has become convinced, by either evidence or argument, that his or her beliefs are true. Today, most people would rather live by preferences than by convictions. They choose to believe something based on conditions and circumstances. When situations change, so does their loyalty. Many people vacillate on issues that require a firm resolve

Contrast this wishy-washy approach with the mindset of the great men and women depicted in Scripture. Despite years of unfair treatment, Joseph never wavered in his commitment to godly principles. As a result, he was in the right place at the right time to ensure the survival of Israel (Gen. 50:20). Daniel, another righteous man living in an idolatrous land, earned the trust of foreign kings by standing firm in his beliefs (Dan. 1:19-20). When his friends Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego also refused to compromise their beliefs, they influenced a king to recognize Jehovah as the one true God (Dan. 3:29)

As these biblical heroes show, godly convictions withstand the changing winds of opinion and the persuasive arguments of opponents. If we're grounded in the Word and trust what God has said, we can stand firm in our beliefs. Confidence breeds the courage to remain strong amid the conflicts entering our lives

Instead of following your own preferences, choose to live a life ruled by godly convictions. Scripture says much about what's most important in life. See if God's principles and promises hold true. Through prayer and study, allow the heavenly Father to firmly root you in solid biblical convictions.

Daily Devotional - The Promise of Eternal Life

JANUARY 18TH 2016 BY DEE LOFLIN

Daily Devotional - The Promise of Eternal Life

1 John 5:5-12

Our culture is obsessed with longevity. While the desire for a lengthy existence of good quality is natural, it's also shortsighted. The Bible does emphasize living a godly life now. But it also contains numerous reminders that believers will remain after this old world is gone.

No pill or diet can extend our days on earth beyond the number God has willed. But we can live forever in a flawless home with a perfected body, doing soul-satisfying work. When we believe Jesus Christ is God's Son and trust Him as our Savior, we receive the gift of eternal life. Believers get to spend eternity serving and fellowshiping with the Lord.

Although followers of the Son of God are promised a place in heaven, eternal life isn't really about location. The true value of having a soul that never dies is that we are always in the presence of God. For those who reject the offer of everlasting life with the Lord, there is an alternative. We call it hell. The souls ending up there suffer a terrible fate—agony and complete separation from the living God. After death, no mercy or grace can bridge the gap between hell and heaven. The matter must be settled while we are on earth (Heb. 9:27).

Eternal life is irrevocably linked to the person of Jesus Christ. As John wrote, “He who has the Son has the life” (1 John 5:12). Reaching a healthy old age is a laudable goal, but nothing’s more important than receiving the Savior and the gift of eternity in His presence.
