Chris joined the U.S. Air Force for one tour of duty and then moved to St. Louis in 2008, where he remained until his death.

Chris enjoyed a simple life, filled with writing, listening to music, reading, gaming and was a fan of all sports.

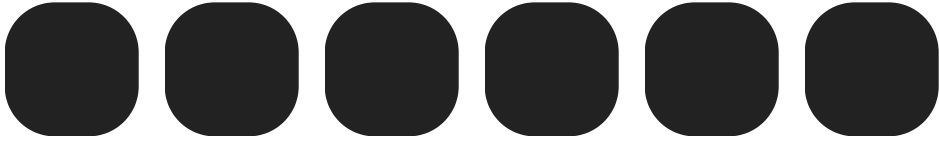

Chris was an official organ/tissue donor. In death, his life could go on for many.

There will be no services as Chris's remains will be cremated so he can rest with his relatives at the Bernie Cemetery and spread throughout the soils of the many locations he loved.

Any memorials should be made to your organization of choice that focuses on curing alcoholism or possibly an individual you may know that is currently battling this terrible disease.
