Mr. Bill Loves His Comics and Collectables

You may have seen Mr. Bill numerous times at Keller Public Library. He loves to read to the children and volunteers for Story Hour every chance he gets. He has also been an avid comic collector since the early 1960's.

He loves the hobby and especially loves sharing his enthusiasm with anyone who will listen.

At recent shows, he was approached by fathers wanting to start their children collecting comics.

That's quite an honor, to be chosen as the one to help start out a new fan generation. He's been told by some major dealers that he might have one of the best complete SilverAge collections between St. Louis, Memphis, & Little Rock.

While his personal core collection is NOT for sale (at least, not yet), he has over 20,000 comics that are for sale.

Thousands of Gold, Silver, Bronze and more recent are available.

Some are worthy of a $1000 price tag, but the vast majority will be priced from $1 to $100, and every price is negotiable.

“Make a fair offer and I will sell!” says Mr.Bill.

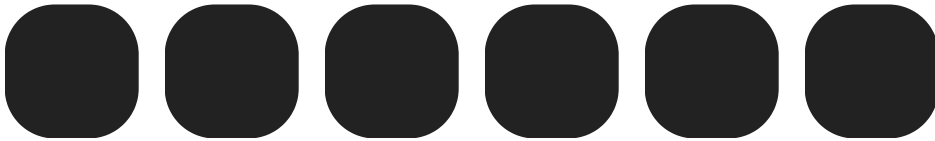

Hundreds of the ever-popular "GrabBags" will be offered at $1 each. While Mr. Bill's Website is being finished, he gladly accepts want-lists and fills orders by mail, always postage free.
